GOAL Mornings
Spring 2021
Parent Handbook
(Updated 2/1/2021)

Thank you for joining our new Pre-Academy GOAL Mornings Program!

In the midst of a global pandemic and major reshuffling of schools and daycares, we created the GOAL Mornings Program. This program is unique in that it is a daytime program. Because daycares, schools, and work places have changed so much over the last several months, we know that you might be looking for something for your child to do during the day. The GOAL Mornings Program is our solution.

During the GOAL Mornings Program, your child will have access to the same great coaches and curriculum as our traditional Pre-Academy Program; however, they will participate on weekday mornings instead of practicing in the evenings or on the weekends.

PLEASE NOTE: The GOAL Mornings Program is a weekday only program. It does not follow the same schedule as the traditional Pre-Academy Program which meets on Saturdays.

As a result, there are no “games” or “teams” in the GOAL Mornings Program. Your child will still play lots of soccer and have lots of scrimmages with their group, but they will only meet with that group on weekday mornings.

Schedule

GOAL Mornings operates on the schedule listed below. During registration, you chose one of the below options. If you need to change your day option, please contact Pre-Academy Director, Zach Salchli, to be moved into a different class.

Day	Age Group(s)	Time	Total Sessions
Monday/Wednesday Group	2015 and 2016	9:00 AM	16
Tuesday/Thursday Group	2015 and 2016	9:00 AM	16
Monday Only	2017 and 2018	10:00 AM	8
Tuesday Only	2017 and 2018	10:00 AM	8

The 2018 age group is part of the Parent Participation Program. Parents are expected to participate with their child in this age group. For GOAL Mornings, the 2017 age group may elect to participate as part of the Parent Participation Program, or may elect to join the older 2015/2016 age group. All 2017 parents will be contacted by the Pre-Academy Director prior to the start of the season to make your choice regarding your child.

The youngest age group meets only once per week following the same curriculum plan as our traditional Pre-Academy Program. The oldest two age groups meet twice a week to also align with our traditional Pre-Academy Program.

PLEASE NOTE: THIS PROGRAM DOES NOT PLAY ON SATURDAYS****

Expectations of the Parents

1. Have your child properly equipped (shin guards, proper apparel and size 3 soccer ball). Two year old Parent/Child Class is not required to have shin guards.
2. Bring water and/or drink for your child.
3. Bring a size 3 soccer ball for your child.
4. Communicate effectively (make sure you are receiving the emails and the coach has your updated contact info). All parents should download the TeamSnap App and utilize it for all communication.
5. Review the resources on the “Parent’s Corner” Page at MightyKicks.net and utilize character development activities, handouts and more.
6. Abide by all COVID-related protocols and procedures. Failure to do so may result in removal from the facility.

PROGRAM FORMAT

SUCCESS THROUGH CHARACTER

Sports provide a great environment for kids to develop character. However, good character is not learned unless it is taught. Research shows that, just like skill, character is malleable (it can be developed and adjusted). Coaches have a great opportunity to be a positive impact on the kids they instruct. They should embrace this opportunity by helping kids develop Grit, Character and the Growth Mindset.

Grit: Resilience, Perseverance, Bravery – getting back up after a fall. Facing and conquering adversity and challenge.

The “Growth Mindset” is the mental attitude that believes that things such as talent and intelligence are developed through effort, repetition and hard work. The “Fixed Mindset” believes that intelligence and skill are something you are born with. Someone with the Fixed Mindset may say “some people are smart while others are not,” or “that kid is a natural at soccer.” Someone with the Growth Mindset may say, “I learned that new skill through practice and hard work,” or “I got better at soccer through the struggle of failing and fixing.”

SESSION FORMAT

1. Guided Free Play (10-15 Minutes)
As players arrive, coaches begin putting players in a “street soccer” style play. Street soccer simply refers to a free play environment with no coaching. Coaches are there to guide play and make sure players stay safe. Street soccer provides an opportunity for players to just play without adult intervention. The first two players who arrive begin playing 1v1 and new players are added until it is a 4v4 game. Once all players have arrived, the coach may choose to begin practice or allow children to play a little longer.
2. Coach Welcome and Life Skill Review (5 Minutes)
Coach greets all players and welcomes them to practice. Coach goes over the objective for the day and tells a life skill story lesson with the Mighty Kicks value word for the day.
3. Warmup and Introduction to Skill Work (5-7 Minutes)
Players participate in a gross motor warmup focused on balance, agility, and coordination. During this warmup, the ball is introduced and a new skill with the ball is taught.
4. Skill Application (5-7 Minutes)
Players participate in an age and developmentally appropriate activity to work on the skill being taught. Players are given ample opportunities to practice their new skill before applying it to the game.
5. Scrimmage (10-15 Minutes)
All practice sessions should end in a 10 minute scrimmage where players have the opportunity to practice the skills they learned during the day’s lesson.
6. Team Cheer and High Fives (2 Minutes)
Coach brings the team back together to review the soccer skill, life skill, and provide an opportunity for a final team cheer before leaving the field.

The Goals of Mighty Kicks:

- 1) FUN: enjoy the playing of the game of soccer.
- 2) Improve motor skills, coordination, and health.
- 3) Generate interest in soccer (and sports).
- 4) Teach the basic skills and rules.
- 5) Character development.

The Curriculum

The Mighty Kicks Curriculum outlines 8 weeks of soccer specific skills that we believe are the most important to establishing the foundation of later soccer development. Every child is given the opportunity to hone these new skills in a variety of ways and at a variety of levels. At the end of every session (“the game”), children have the opportunity to practice these specific skills in an appropriately competitive environment.

The skills taught each week include the following:

1. Dribbling for Control (Using all surfaces of the foot: inside, outside, in-step, and sole)
2. Stopping and Moving (Using all surfaces of the foot to stop, turn, and move)
3. Striking a Ball with the Inside of the Foot
4. Striking a Ball with the In-Step (Laces) of the Foot
5. 1v1 Attacking
6. Turns
7. Shielding the Ball
8. Review of Skills

Previously learned skills are reinforced each week and there is an ongoing focus on specific foot skill development. Every week players are focused on getting touches on the ball through a series of footwork exercises and juggling patterns. All players are taught proper juggling technique, even in our youngest ages, in order to develop the habit later on.

All sessions follow the outline above under “Session Format”. All Mighty Kicks coaches and volunteers have been given a specific curriculum to follow. This curriculum outlines a specific Life Skill as well as specific soccer focus for the week. Each week your child will learn one of the Life Skills from above and will participate in a soccer lesson that emphasizes individual player growth.

Uniforms

All Pre-Academy players are provided a uniform t-shirt as part of registration. You are not required to purchase anything additional. Players may choose their own color of shorts and socks. Shin guards are required for all players aged 4 and up but are also highly recommended for ages 3 and up.

Communication

Last season SKY Soccer adopted the TeamSnap application for the Pre-Academy Program. This application enables the Pre-Academy coaches and parents to communicate in real time via instant messaging capabilities as well as share regular updates via instant message and email. The schedule will also be updated in TeamSnap, including field numbers with reminders being emailed. TeamSnap will be free to download from app stores and used by our Pre-Academy participants. You will receive a TeamSnap invite to join the Pre-Academy group. Simply accept your invite, create a login and download the app on your phone and you'll receive all program related information directly.

Parents are expected to utilize TeamSnap for all scheduling and communication with the coaches. Please be sure you have downloaded the app and know how to use it prior to the first session.

Inclement Weather and Cancellations

In the event of severe weather or a situation where the park has been closed, you will be notified via TeamSnap. This is one reason it is very important to have the TeamSnap app installed. All schedule notifications will be sent via TeamSnap. This includes all weather-related cancellations.

COVID-19 ADDITIONS TO THE HANDBOOK (UPDATED AUGUST 2020)

In consideration of COVID-19 and other infectious diseases, Mighty Kicks will be taking a proactive step toward mitigating risk. Please note that there is always an inherent risk involved in any sport or physical activity, and it is impossible to get rid of all risks. However, we believe a proactive stance is always best and want to be prepared to keep all kids and families safe. In accordance with this, please practice good social etiquette in maintaining social distancing and keeping those around you safe.

Steps Mighty Kicks Southern Kentucky will be taking:

- Response and Reporting: If any case or symptoms of COVID-19 are reported or detected, the Mighty Kicks coach, if not Zach Salchli (Director), will report this information immediately to Zach Salchli the Director of Mighty Kicks Southern Kentucky. Program Director and all Staff Coaches will take advice and adhere to guidelines set forth by the Barren River Health Department for Return to Play of affected families. Coach Zach will also relay information to all families that came into contact with the individual as required by any local authorities.
- Social/Physical Distancing: Each of our sessions will maintain physical distancing as much as possible. The coach will maintain physical distancing throughout each session. All family members that are in attendance are required to maintain 6 feet of physical distance between participants and other families. Coaches will consider social distancing in the design of all sessions to limit the amount of potential contact within a session.
- Facemasks: Facemasks will not be required for participants to wear during the session, but it is suggested that all participants and family members wear facemasks when arriving and leaving the park. Coaches will wear face masks before and after each session in case there are any conversations with families that need to occur as well as if a kid happens to run up to a coach to speak with them. During the sessions, the coaches will retain a strict physical distance from participants but will not be wearing their mask in order for all of the children to hear their instructions and guidance through the activities. Coaches will however keep their facemasks on them to quickly put on if any instance should occur where a child gets near the coach or the coach needs to assist the child.

- Coaches hygiene: Coaches will have their own hand sanitizer and will be using it before, throughout, and after each session. Coaches will not attend any sessions if they display any signs or symptoms of COVID-19 and will immediately go and receive a test.

Steps Families need to take when attending a session:

- If your child or any member of their household is or has displayed any signs or symptoms of COVID-19 they must remain at home and not attend a session. Please inform Zach Salchli (Owner/Director) if this occurs with your child or any member of your household. Parents should take their child's temperature prior to arrival at the park. No participant should arrive at the park with a fever of 100.4 or higher.
- Family units must maintain 6 feet of distance from other participants and their family members throughout the session. Due to restrictions regarding the size of groups, parents will be required to stay outside of the field during a session. Ample space will be provided outside the designated field space in order for groups to socially distance from one another. Families should plan to wear a mask while watching games if they cannot maintain 6 feet of distance with other families.
- When arriving to the fields and departing each family unit should maintain 6 feet of physical distance between other families leaving and arriving at the fields at the same time.

Parent Participation Program (Parent/Child Class)

Our youngest participants (2018 for the spring 2021 season) take part in a Parent Participation Program, sometimes called a "Mommy and Me" program. Parents are expected to participate with their child in this introductory program. All children who are 2 Years Old at the time of the season must participate as part of the Parent Participation Program. This program focuses on gross motor development, listening skills, and the ability to follow directions. This introductory program provides children with the foundation needed to successfully join the Pre-Academy in their next season.

The next page of information is in regards to the Parent Participation Program of GOAL Mornings (2018 birth years for the Spring 2021 season).

Rationale

We believe soccer is the world's best introductory sport. It provides an easy access point to physical activity to get kids active and moving. Our goal is to increase the number of children playing soccer, and in order to do so, we believe that providing a safe and accessible entry point to the game is the most important.

This is why we start children in our Parent/Child Introductory Class. This class provides an opportunity for children to engage in the game in a safe environment with their parent's support. It also provides parents support in the best ways to interact with their child for better engagement and learning in a new sport. Whether you grew up playing the game, or you know nothing about it, the Parent/Child Introductory Class will give you the tools to help support your young soccer player as they experience the world's beautiful game for the first time.

Development Pipeline

SKY Soccer has recently taken a new approach to ensuring a continuum of programming and development opportunities for all children. We are excited to partner with them in this endeavor as the foundational piece for all future programming. As the entry point to the pipeline of development, we want to ensure a positive and safe first soccer experience for all participants. As children age through our Mighty Kicks curriculum, they will learn the skills necessary to enter the Junior Academy Program and into the SKY Academy Select Program as they get older. This pipeline provides a professional coaching environment from age 2 all the way through age 18. SKY Soccer is unique in being one of the only clubs in the entire state that has a development pathway with a professional and licensed coaching staff from age 2 and upward. This is not common, and our community is fortunate to have this growth and development opportunity for aspiring athletes.

Session Format

The Parent/Child Introductory Class operates on a 45 minute time frame. Each session follows a general outline described below:

1. Exploratory Time (5-10 Minutes)

During Exploratory Time, the coaching staff puts out various soccer equipment: goals, ladders, cones, and rings for children to engage in free play. This gives children access to the materials of the day and provides a safe space to play with these materials. Please do not get concerned that your child is using the equipment the wrong way. We put the equipment there for them to explore and use it how they see fit, and then the day's lesson will work on how to use the equipment properly. Over time, children will begin to engage with the equipment in the appropriate manner. So, if they pick up cones or throw rings, please know that it is perfectly fine. That's why they are there!

2. Storyboard and Life Skill Lesson (5 Minutes)

Each week children learn a new life skill value word. This is introduced through an interactive storyboard led by the head coach. Through engaging storytelling, children interact with new vocabulary and learn to apply that new vocabulary to the activities they are doing.

3. Gross Motor Time (15 Minutes)

Children participate in a variety of gross motor movement activities to help them gain control of their bodies, improve their coordination, and learn basic movements for the game of soccer.

4. Soccer Skill Lesson (15 Minutes)

Children are introduced to a soccer skill through a series of activities they will participate with their parents. The coach will speak directly to children about the game with the expectation that the parent will help their child through the activity.

5. Closure/Wrap Up (2 Minutes)

Children come back together with the coach to review the skills learned and do a final team cheer.

Skills Learned

The below is a list of skills acquired through participation in the program. This list is just a small snapshot of all the things children learn through the program!

What's Best for Kids in Soccer? Developing Programming for Success for All Kids

It's widely accepted that youth sports participation is great for children. There are numerous health benefits, as well as benefits cognitively, socially, and emotionally for children who participate in a youth sports program regularly. However, a widely misunderstood area of youth sports is the type of environment that is appropriate for a child varies depending on their developmental age and level. Pushing a child into an environment that they are not ready for can create a number of challenges down the road for that child when it comes to active participation in a sports program.

Why Do Kids Quit?

In 2014, George Washington University conducted a study to determine the factors that influence a child to participate in a sports activity. The top reason kids quit: it's no longer fun. Youth sports participation numbers across the board have been dropping substantially in the last few years. When it comes to youth soccer, researchers have found that the age where the substantial drop first occurs is happening earlier and earlier. What once was attributed to kids specializing in a sport by the age of 13 or 14 has now become a peak dropout age of 6. Children are quitting youth soccer in huge numbers beginning at the age of 6. What could be the contributing factors to kids leaving the game in huge numbers by the age of 6? When you look across our youth soccer landscape in the country, it becomes abundantly clear: adults.

That same George Washington University study ranked eighty-one factors that might make sports participation "fun" for a child. It should come as no surprise to those of us actively involved in the game for a number of years that all the way down at #48 is the first time winning comes into play. What did kids rank as their #1? Trying your best. They followed with having a respectful coach and getting lots of time to play.

What Environment Best Supports Young Players?

For the sake of this article, let's take a look at those pivotal years before age 6. What type of environment best supports the proper development of my 2 to 5 year old child? From the George Washington study we know it has to be fun. We also know that plenty of time getting to play and having coaches that treat players respectfully will help keep players in the game. What does science say about the types of activities this environment should support?

According to the Mayo Clinic, young children ages 2 to 5 are just beginning to master many of the basic movements in gross motor development. However, they are also too young for most organized sports settings. Participation in sports in ages 2 to 5 does not tend to show any long-term advantage in terms of future sports performance. What this means is that the environment children participate in is going to be more about instilling a love for the game, more so than their future prowess as an athlete. What this also means is that putting kids in the wrong environment because we think they need to be "more competitive" or in a "more challenging" environment with older children can actually have the reverse effect. Instead of pushing kids to develop quicker, we are actually pushing them into an activity that is developmentally inappropriate. When we consider this, it makes perfect sense why kids are dropping out of soccer by the age of 6. Adults are getting in the way!

Young children need to be in an environment that supports their physical, cognitive, and social development. Activities that a good youth soccer program should provide physically at this age include: running, hopping, skipping, jumping, kicking, and throwing. A program should be built around opportunities for a child to have a ball at their feet at least 50% of the time. For an hour long session, a child should have the ball at their feet for at least 30 minutes of that time. How is that accomplished if children are forced into playing adult-like games? Well, put simply, it can't. Instead, children should engage in up to 15 minutes of gross motor activity, followed by 30 minutes of work with a ball, and can end with 15 minutes of small-sided play. Small-sided play refers to 3v3 or 4v4 soccer in a smaller space so that children have more opportunities with the ball at their feet. Every child should be involved in the play and not just those that can run faster or kick harder. In your typical recreational program, unfortunately, the early developer tends to run rampant. That player gets to touch the ball more because he/she is more aggressive physically or faster than the other players. Who does that benefit? The early developer. Who does that not benefit? Literally everyone else.

Why Won't They Pass the Ball?

One of my favorite sights on a weeknight is the well-meaning coach trying to put together a wonderful lesson on passing to his/her young athletes. They might work on the technical points (which is great!), and they might even try and get their little guys to string a few passes together while they stand awkwardly out on the practice field. Success! Then comes Saturday. Why won't they pass?!?

They won't pass because their brain tells them not to do it. It's not that they're being defiant. They just can't process time and space like our adult brain can. So, when we see all of that space and that wide open player, their brain is having trouble processing that distance. Too many other stimuli are also getting in the way. Life is tough when you're only 4 and there are so many new things to see, hear, and touch.

Don't believe me? Try this with your child. Give them a set of 4 cones. Without your guidance, ask them to space out those cones equally. If your child is a normally developing 4 year old, you will get a nice line of cones, one touching the other. Now, ask them to spread them out equally over a certain distance. They will have all sorts of trouble trying to visualize those spaces over even 10 yards. It's not their fault. Their brain just works that way.

With that in mind, consider the other challenge with kids playing adult-like soccer games. Why do they bunch up? Well, that's where the ball is and that's their only point of reference. Do they run past that sideline like it's not even there? Their brain is processing ball, ball, ball. It's not their fault. Can you imagine being 4 or 5 and receiving all sorts of new information from your coach who changes his mind every second about what to do? It's exhausting. Now, consider why our soccer environments are a big failure for our youngest kids. Why do kids drop out at age 6? It can't possibly be fun anymore.

I Want My Child to be on a Team!

I hear this one a lot, and I wholeheartedly agree. Even my 2 year old loves the idea of going to soccer practice and seeing her best friend from school. She literally talks about it all week. It is so important socially for kids to be with other kids. There is nothing wrong with being on a team. In fact, in our programs, we divide kids into groups of kids that they stay with for the whole season. We even give that group a team name, or let the coach decide. All of this is perfectly appropriate.

However, here's where it gets inappropriate. Your 4 or 5 year old has no real concept of winning or losing. They have no real concept of what it means to be on a team supporting their teammates. In fact, they won't actually learn all of those important life lessons that we want to instill in kids just simply from being on a team. These skills actually have to be explicitly taught.

Building friendships through sports is incredibly important, but somewhere along the line our youth recreational programs across the country have become toxic. Well-meaning parents request their child be with a specific group because they see that group being successful. Your child, however, does not even worry about winning or losing. The only one keeping score is you.

If your child's coach is keeping score--run for the hills! Get away from that guy. These small acts by adults can shift the focus on what's really important with the game. What's really important? Well, the kids told us. Having fun, learning new skills, and trying your best. Let's listen to the kids.

Putting it Altogether

Let's put all that we've learned together to develop a youth soccer program that really works for kids. What components do we need? Kids need a chance to grow physically, socially, and cognitively. Programs like Mighty Kicks which have a set curriculum for coaches to follow ensure that everyone is getting access to the same great stuff.

Kids aged 2 to 5 need the chance to have plenty of opportunities at improving their quickly growing set of gross motor skills. An effective youth soccer program at this age will have lots of opportunities for running, jumping, hopping, skipping, kicking, throwing, and maybe a little tumbling as well.

Next, every kid needs to have a ball at their feet. Kids want the ball. They need to spend more time with the ball than anything else and learn the correct technique for controlling, shooting, passing, and receiving. They need ample opportunities to experiment with dribbling the ball. Do you think Ronaldo or Messi spent lots of time standing in lines when they were young? No! They had the ball at their feet making magic.

Another key aspect of a successful program for young children is time for social-emotional development. Ideally, the program will teach life skills with a dedicated curriculum. Children need help sorting through ideas like getting rid of fears, overcoming challenges, and persevering. However, these grown up ideas are too big for our little ones. Instead, we can teach them things like Be Brave, Have Confidence, and Work Hard.

Finally, a youth soccer program should have time for play. However, this play should not be super structured with lots of defined rules. A program centered only on the “game” is detrimental to kids’ development. Kids should play in a 3v3 or 4v4 environment and should be matched up with physical ability levels as much as possible to give everyone the opportunity to experience success. Coaches should encourage but not direct. Coaches should be concerned mainly with ensuring the field is safe for all children and that every child gets an opportunity to touch the ball. Remember, young children do not have the same concept for team as we adults have. Lower your expectations when it comes to team concepts like passing and moving to get open. You might even score in the wrong goal. That’s fine! Celebrate it anyway. A great coach at this age celebrates every small victory.

For the sake of kids across the country, I encourage you to consider how your youth soccer program is arranged. Well-meaning adults can sometimes ruin the environment for kids who just want to have fun. A program with a clear curriculum and support from trained coaches works best at this age. Don’t be fooled into thinking that children need to play up an age group or in an environment that is primarily game-based just because it looks more like soccer to you. The research is clear. It just doesn’t work!
